

FINANCIAL SERVICE MARKET

Financial Economics Faculty

Year of study: 5th

Credits: 4 ECTS

Practical classes: 144

Obligatory

Lecturers: Senior Instructor A. Zamkovej

Purpose: To assimilate the knowledge of the theoretical and practical aspects of financial management by financial intermediaries and financial services analysis.

Objective: To study the consumer needs and possibilities of their satisfaction by various financial institutions in financial services market, the main directions of the state policy in the field of regulation of financial relations arising in the financial services market, to acquire skills of comparative analysis in financial services industry and identify competitive advantages and disadvantages of certain services.

Subject: relations arising in the process of moving funds between government, corporations and individuals and mediated by specialized financial institutions.

Content of the subject is revealed in the topics: Financial services market and its role in the economy. Subjects of the financial services market. Definition and classification of financial intermediation. The institutional structure of the financial services market. Segmental structure of the financial services market. Financial services in the money market. Financial services in the forex market. Financial services on the loan market. Financial Services in the stock market. Financial services of risk takeover. The infrastructure of the financial services market. State regulation and self-regulation of the financial services market.

Supporting lectures and practical classes: computer, multimedia equipment, didactic materials.

Assessment: written test, performance of individual tasks, test, lecture and practical modules, examination.

Teaching methods: interactive (thought-provoking) lectures, role plays, case studies, business simulations.

Instructional Support: reference compendium of lectures, teaching materials, control tests.

Examination method: written examination.

Registration for the course: none.

Registration for the exam: as scheduled.

Language: Ukrainian or Russian.